over 3,000 live edge slabs

We recently had a quality control inspection to make sure everything was up to snuff! The bacon Koa log and Monkey Pod were the favorites. We've been diligently going through our inventory to level a slab out of each live edge log to showcase the grain and color. We have over 3,000 individual slabs, out of 265 logs (and growing!), in 55 different species and we upload pictures of them to our website as we are able at mbvener.com/slabs

We're proud of what we do every single day and our dedicated sales staff are always willing to field any questions you may have. Even if you don't buy from us, we appreciate the opportunity. We thoroughly enjoy sharing our love of wood with you and seeing your finished products!

cottonwood slabs

Cottonwood (Populus trichocarpa) live edge tends to be light to darker brown with lighter, almost white sapwood. Cottonwood is generally easy to work with both hand and machine tools, although we do recommend sharp cutters when planing to avoid fuzzy surfaces. Because it is a softer wood, it generally machines nicely.

Our unique inventory of Cottonwood tabletops have characteristic internal and external bark clusters, and many of the slabs display beautiful and sought after flame and curl. Cottonwood is an economical choice for furniture and interior accent pieces. Our selections pictured here are solid river table candidates as well!
